

Havana Brown

BG
Bello Graph

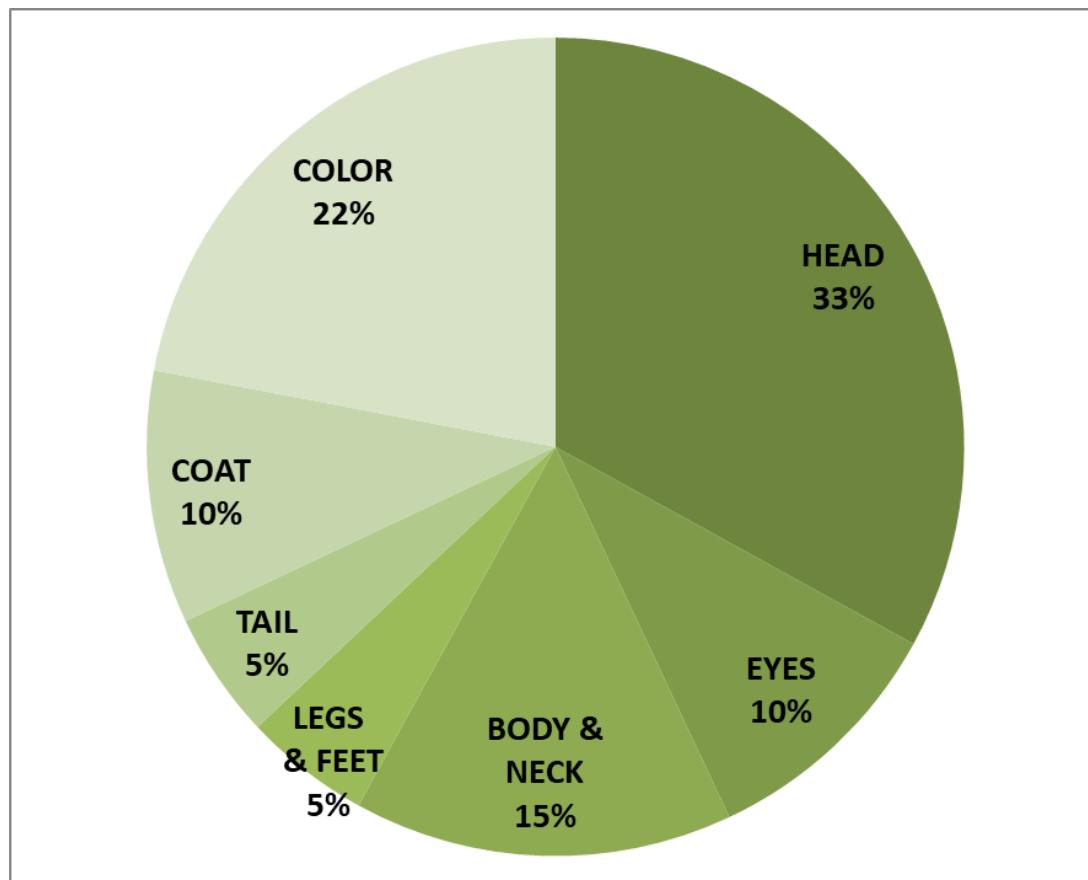

CFA
WE KNOW CATS

About the Havana

- Warm, richly colored, self-brown shorthair cat with green eyes
- A moderate cat without extremes
- A unique head structure with pronounced muzzle
- A short, smooth, lustrous coat

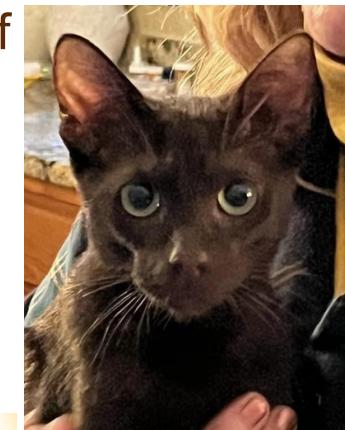

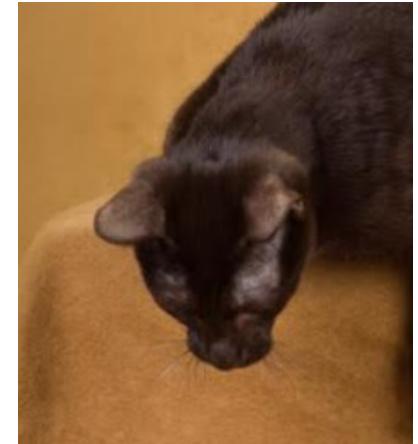

Points Breakdown

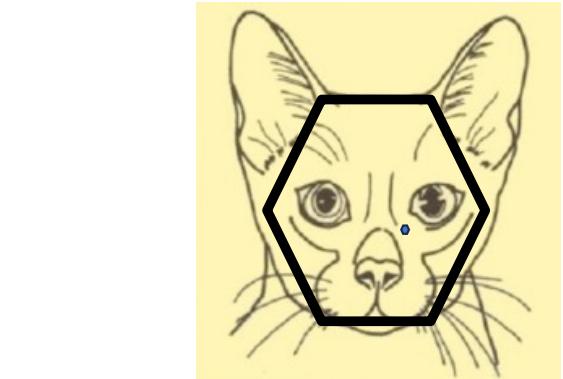

Head (33 points)

- Head is slightly longer than wide
- Viewed from above, a rounded muzzle with a pronounced break on both sides behind whisker pads
- A distinct stop at the eyes (below brow bone). The end of muzzle looks almost square in profile
- Tip of nose and chin form almost perpendicular line
- Allow sparse hair on chin, directly below lower lip, above the eyes, on ears and around hocks
- Allow for somewhat broader heads and stud jowls in males

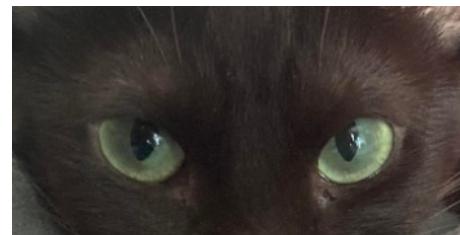

Head- continued (33 points)

- Heads should not appear round nor triangular
- The forehead should be visibly evident without protruding
- Havana Browns should not have a Roman nose the straighter the nose line the more desirable
- Ears - large, round-tipped, cupped at the base; forward tilting and alert but not flaring, little hair inside or out

Eyes (10 points)

- Oval aperture
- Medium sized
- Any vivid, level shade of green; deeper the color the better
- Disqualify for any eye color other than green

Coat Quality (10 points)

- short to medium length – smooth and lustrous
- Should not appear open or have an undercoat

Color (20 points)

- Any even shade of rich, warm brown(chocolate-bb). The same sound shade should be observed throughout the hair shaft.
- No preference to lighter or darker shades.
- Allow for ghost tabby markings on kittens & young adults

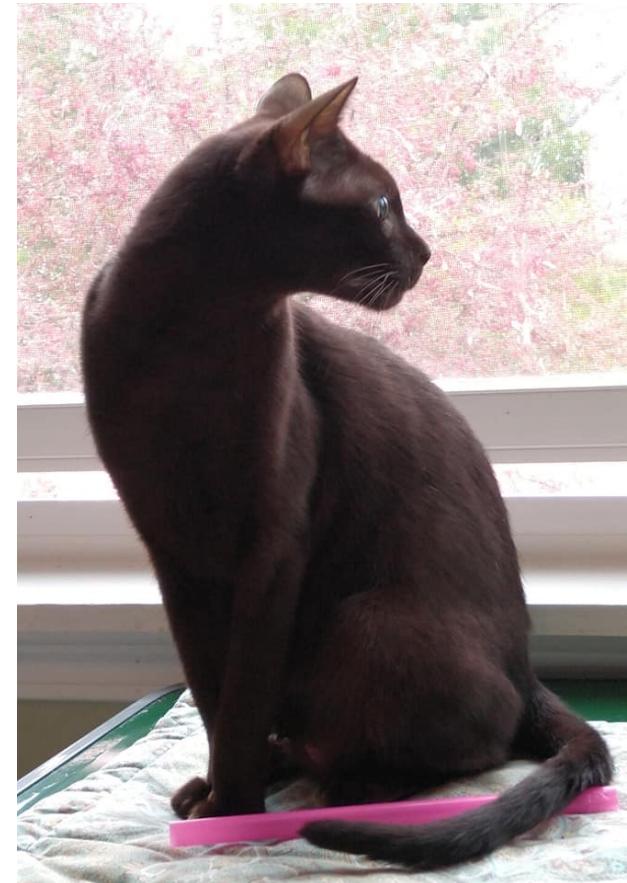

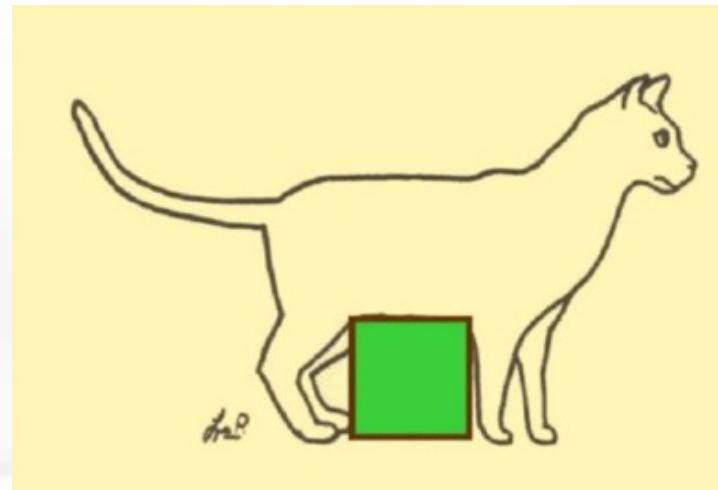

Nose leather: brown with a rosy flush

Paw pads: rosy toned.

Whiskers: brown, complementing the coat color

Body and Neck (15 points)

- Medium length torso, firm and muscular.
- Adult males larger than female; balance more significant than weight
- Medium length neck; proportional to body
- Refined but not delicate
- Moderate and well balanced

Legs and Feet (5 points)

- Stands relatively high on legs
- Legs straight; hind legs can be slightly longer than front
- Female legs slim and dainty
- Male legs slenderness and length often less evident
- Paws oval, compact

Tail (5 points)

- Medium length; tapers at end
- Neither whip-like nor blunt
- not too broad at base
- Proportional to body

Disqualifiers

- Kinked tail
- Locket or button on fur
- Incorrect number of toes
- Any eye color other than green
- Incorrect color of whiskers, nose leather or paw pads

DO NOT DISQUALIFY FOR

- Light brown whiskers

Havana Summary

- Manmade breed – the first shown self chocolates were from England and known as the Chestnut Foreign; they were imported to the US in the 50's and the Havana Brown breed was created
- Medium size with good muscle tone
- Distinctive muzzle shape, expressive eyes and large forward-tilted ears
- Rich, even shade of warm brown
- MODERATE – MODERATE – MODERATE
Nothing about this breed is extreme

*The Havana Brown standard is essentially the same in all registries, and has had no significant changes since the acceptance of the breed in the 1960's

CRAIGIEHILLOCK BRONZE WING and CRAIGIEHILLOCK BRONZE LEAF were two of the first Chestnuts. Bred by Mrs. Clarke and owned by Mrs. Monro Smith, England, they were born in 1954. Their sire was ELMTOWER BRONZE IDOL and they were 3 months old when photographed.

Roofspringer Marhuana